7. METHOD OF REASSESSMENT

Each Reassessment has been computed as a proration of the existing individual assessments to the total existing assessment.

The following page describes a portion of method of the assessment from the Engineer's Report prepared at the time of formation of the assessment district.

PART VI

LOS OSOS COMMUNITY SERVICES DISTRICT
WASTEWATER ASSESSMENT DISTRICT NO. 1

METHOD OF ASSESSING COSTS

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF METHOD:

In order to relate costs to the various properties benefitting from the project, all properties that stand to benefit from the construction of the community sewer system, vacant or occupied, subdivided or unsubdivided, have been assessed a portion of the project costs. Approximately 93% of the assessment district is comprised of residentially zoned lots, 6% is commercially zoned, and the remainder is open space, recreational use, and public facilities.

The manner in which costs were distributed to these properties is as follows:

Each property that stands to benefit from a particular portion of the project has been assigned a "benefit unit", or share in the overall cost of that portion. For example, one portion of the project involves the construction of sewer laterals. Each property to which a lateral turnout is planned to be extended has been assigned one (1) benefit unit (BU), or one share in the lateral cost component of the project.

This logic in assigning BUs was used to distribute the costs of other project components as well. However, some groups of properties stand to benefit in a different manner than others. For example, several neighborhoods already have sewer laterals and collectors in place since they are on common septic systems. These properties do not stand to benefit from the construction of laterals or collectors, but they will benefit from the construction of larger trunk sewers, the treatment plant and disposal facilities, and common costs such as pre-design studies and water conservation.

Furthermore, large unsubdivided properties will require that an internal collection system and laterals be constructed at the time that the property is developed. In keeping then with the concept of benefit to the property, large unsubdivided properties do not share in the cost of the laterals and collectors at this time. Such properties do, however, share in the cost of the trunk system, treatment and disposal, and the common facilities. Future development of these properties would require on-site sewer laterals and collectors to be installed at the time of development at the developer's expense.

Regarding plant capacity, the treatment plant is planned for 1.4 million gallons per day (average dry weather flow) of capacity which represents the estimated wastewater flow rate from existing and future development.
